This seminar course is about the economics of gender and has a focus on labor and marriage markets. Students will be given an overview of gender differences in these markets, as well as some potential reasons for those differences. The course will also discuss policies that can affect the gender gaps.

Prerequisites: Intermediate Micro (Econ 121 or 125), Introduction to Data Analysis and Econometrics or Equivalent.