This course would compare the economic development of Japan and China from the early 19th century through the early 21st. Using history and economic history textbooks for both countries and a neoclassical growth framework, the course would examine the contours of each country’s development through the perspectives of industrialization, imperialism, institutions, and international engagement. Topics would be covered biweekly in a comparative context for both countries.

Prerequisite: Intermediate macro

Semester offered: Spring
Undergrad Course Category: Development
International
Course Description: Course Description

Source URL: https://economics.yale.edu/courses/econ-426b-economic-development-china-and-japan-1800s