Are Lawyers Unhappier Than Other Professionals?

Faculty Member: Yair Listokin

“Are Lawyers Unhappier than Other Professionals and Why?”

I am collecting well-being data from a number of nationally representative randomized studies. I will use these datasets, which include many lawyers, to develop the first unbiased sample of data on lawyer well-being. In addition, many of the datasets include considerable information about covariates, so I hope to also explore why lawyers may suffer more from mental illness than a comparable non-lawyer population.

I am seeking RAs to assist me in gathering the existing data from numerous sources and then analyzing it.

Experience with Stata or willingness to learn.

Award: Caleb Dean
Tobin Application Link: Tobin Application
Project Type: Tobin
Project Year: 2019
Term: Spring 2019

Source URL: https://economics.yale.edu/undergraduate/tobin/spring-2019/are-lawyers-unhappier-other-professionals