Professors Daniel Bartels and Celia Gaertig are hiring a full-time research assistant to start in the summer of 2020. This full-time RA will be working on projects in marketing, psychology, and behavioral economics. The emphasis will be on the management and analysis of research studies conducted online, in the research lab, and in field settings. If you know of any exceptional graduating seniors or recent graduates who would be interested in working with Professors Bartels and Gaertig for a year or, preferably, two years before applying to graduate school, I would appreciate you letting them know about this opportunity. If there is any student who you think is particularly worthy of a close look, please don’t hesitate to let me know directly. This position has been an excellent preparation for PhD programs, with previous participants going on to institutions like MIT, Harvard, Berkeley, Stanford, and UChicago.

Organization: Chicago Booth
Job Location: Chicago
Job Application Link: Research Assistant
Job Application Deadline: Sunday, April 19, 2020
Known Job Application Deadline: Yes
Post Date: Tuesday, March 31, 2020

Source URL: https://economics.yale.edu/undergraduate/employment-opportunities/research-assistant-32