Economics of Cities: Regional and Urban Economics

Subject Code (deprecated): ECON
Course Number: 428
Section Number: 01
Description: Why do cities exist? Why do firms cluster? Why some U.S. cities have prospered in recent decades while others have declined? What are the structural roots of our housing crises today? This course takes cities as our laboratory and asks important aspects that are reshaping the very fabric of our cities and neighborhoods.

Instructor(s): Staff
Meeting Pattern (deprecated): TTh 4.00-5.15
Term Code: 202003
Category from Feed: YCSO
Industrial Organization
Developent

Source URL: https://economics.yale.edu/undergraduate/courses/428/202003