Small businesses and government assistance during the pandemic

Faculty Member: John Eric Humphries

Proposal Description:

This project evaluates an RCT in eight Latin American Countries which provided small businesses information about which specific emergency assistance programs they were likely eligible for, and how to apply. The undergraduate researcher will help with data cleaning and analysis, working closely with me and my co-authors.

Requisite Skills and Qualifications:

This project requires an advanced experience using R, an understanding of instrumental variables, and experience working with large data sets.
