This course explores core concepts in growth theory and macroeconomics aimed at providing a good grounding in the theoretical concepts as well as their applications to practical realities in economics. The course will cover topics in macroeconomics, including productivity, capital markets, labor markets, trade, financial crises and aggregate supply and demand. For IDE students.

Semester offered: Fall

Source URL: https://economics.yale.edu/courses/econ-546a-growth-and-macroeconomics-ide