A course for third and fourth year students doing research in macroeconomics to prepare their prospectuses and to present their dissertation work. Each student will be required to make at least two presentations per semester. For third year students and beyond, at least one of the presentations in the first semester should be a mock job talk.

Semester offered: Fall

Source URL: https://economics.yale.edu/courses/econ-540a-macroeconomics-student-workshop-macro-lunch