Econ 485a. Measuring Well-Being: Concepts and Applications

- Day / time: MW 11:35 - 12:50pm
- Course Type: Undergraduate
- Course term: Not offered
- Year: 2014
- Instructor(s): Martin Wittenberg

Examination of well-being in conditions of poverty, inequality, and social mobility. Readings in conceptual literature combined with research using data to measure well-being. In-class analysis of South African datasets; independent research using survey data from another country.

Prerequisite: Introductory microeconomics. Recommended preparation: GLBL 121.

[Also GLBL 187a]

Undergrad Course Category: Development
Labor
Public

Source URL: https://economics.yale.edu/courses/econ-485a-measuring-well-being-concepts-and-applications